

ADHD cleaning checklist, room by room

Three rules. Set a timer and stop when it rings, even mid-task. Tick what you did, ignore what you did not. On a day you cannot function, do only the shaded bad-day line in one room and call it done.

Kitchen reset

Timer: 10 minutes. Feels like an hour, is not.

- ☐ Music or a video on first
- ☐ Fill the sink with hot soapy water, drop everything in
- ☐ Bin: wrappers, packaging, anything obviously rubbish
- ☐ Wipe one counter, the one you look at most
- ☐ Dishwasher on, or wash until the song ends
- ☐ Cups from other rooms back to the kitchen

Bad day: rinse one mug for tomorrow. Done.

Bedroom reset

Timer: 10 minutes.

- ☐ Open the curtains, open a window
- ☐ Bed pulled straight, not made, straight
- ☐ Clothes on the chair: wearable to a hook, dirty to the basket
- ☐ Floor path from door to bed cleared
- ☐ Nightstand: cups out, rubbish out, the rest stays
- ☐ One bag of anything that lives in another room, delivered

Bad day: clear the path to the bed. Done.

Bathroom reset

Timer: 5 minutes, right after a shower you were taking anyway.

- ☐ Counter: everything that lives elsewhere into one pile outside the door
- ☐ Sink and taps wiped with one cloth
- ☐ Mirror, same cloth
- ☐ Toilet seat and rim, same cloth, then the cloth goes in the wash
- ☐ Floor spot-check: hair, bath mat straight, bin tied if full

Bad day: wipe the sink. Done.

Living room reset

Timer: 8 minutes.

- ☐ One bin bag round: rubbish only, no sorting
- ☐ Cups and plates to the kitchen (do not wash them now)
- ☐ Coffee table cleared to the floor if it must, then to homes
- ☐ Cushions and blankets back on the sofa
- ☐ Floor path cleared, shoes to the door

Bad day: cups to the kitchen. Done.

Laundry, basket to drawer

Each line is its own task. One line per day is a real pace.

- ☐ Load in, machine on
- ☐ Wet to dryer or rack the same day (set an alarm)
- ☐ Dry clothes into one basket, not the floor
- ☐ Fold or hang for one song, then stop
- ☐ Whatever is folded goes in the drawer now

Bad day: wet laundry out of the machine. Done.

Doom pile, one basket only

Timer: 15 minutes. Any pile, any room.

- ☐ Four containers: bin, keep-here, other-room, decide-later
- ☐ Pick up one object, put it in one container, no thinking
- ☐ Keep going until the timer rings, not until the pile is gone
- ☐ Other-room container delivered on your next trip
- ☐ Decide-later container gets a lid and a date one week away

Bad day: bin only. Ten items. Done.

Daily bare minimum (any day, any energy)

- ☐ Rubbish that smells, out
- ☐ Dishes soaking, not washed
- ☐ A clear path through every room
- ☐ One load of laundry moved one step
- ☐ Tomorrow's mug rinsed
- ☐ Curtains open, one window open

Bad day: pick one line. That is the whole plan.